Commodore's Comments

Hi sailors,

This is starting to get exciting now, water has turned hard in places, Santa is getting his bundle of toys ready to open like a peddler opening his pack, the elves are sharpening sleigh runners, and the moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow gives the lustre of midday to sailboats below. The fast-sailing season is almost here. You'll have to excuse me during the winter months as I have trouble staying focused on soft water sailboats, you know why, though I should talk with those elves about sharpening runners. Most sailors lament the coming of winter, putting the boats away, securing everything for a long winter's nap, watching the dry leaves before the wild hurricane fly, when they meet with a sailboat, mount to the sky and land in the cockpit, and planning to make all those repairs and upgrades over the winter months. If you're anything like me, those winter month projects get crammed into late April and May. I do need some elf help, maybe that's what I'll ask Santy for though he'll probably laugh and shake his little round belly like a bowl full of jelly.

I'll see you all at Whealon's Waterfront on Thursday the 12th.

Your Commodore, Andy Gratton
